Dear PrimeTime:

In regards to the questionnaire in April's magazine, I would like to answer some of the questions more fully. I have recently brought pay tv into the house again, I had it once before for a year and cancelled it due to going to school in United States. It has changed for the better with more top grade movies and exciting specials. My parents were at first against it because they thought it might take up too much of my time but now it is sometimes impossible to pull them away from it. Rating pay tv since you received it is hard to do because sometimes you might have less movies in a month, or you may dislike some movies. As the saying goes though, for every one who dislikes a movie, there is another who likes it very much. I like how you have the shows set up according to the time of day, for example the violent movies are shown later at night when the kids are asleep. The magazine itself has lots of information on the movies with a good set up which is easily understood. But there are a couple of minor things I thought could be improved both in the magazine and the pay tv channel. In the magazine I noticed that there was very little on the other networks and I was wondering if there was any way to increase this information or is there a separate magazine available for the other channels. Finally, on the pay tv channel I noticed that you fill in the time between movies with highlights of movies to come up next and for the coming months. I find this an excellent feature as it gives information and an actual look at the picture to base my judgement on, but sometimes you play some short features which I have seen again and again even from the first day I received pay tv. Is there any other alternative short features which can be shown?

Hope to hear from you soon, keep up the good work.

S. Peddle
Scarborough, Ontario

The response to the survey in PrimeTime was most gratifying and First Choice★ Superchannel programmers were pleased to learn more about what their subscribers would like to see. Due to subscribers response, PrimeTime is planning on increasing our coverage of the specialty networks in our upcoming issues. If you look through this issue of PrimeTime, you will notice a full page announcement of the Great Canadian Shorts Contest, run by First Choice★ Superchannel. This contest is meant to generate additional short features for airing on First Choice★ Superchannel and we are certain there will be considerable interest from both producers and viewers. Who knows, maybe the next Spielberg or Coppola will get his start on your TV screen!

Dear PrimeTime:

Hi! I enjoy watching your Screen Gems, even though I was not around as they were being made. Whatever you do, do not ever take those films off. These movies can be enjoyed by all ages. If possible could you tell me how old Cary Grant is and where I could write him.

J. Luker
Castlegar, B.C.

*Cary Grant was born Archibald Alexander Leach, on January 18, 1904 in Bristol, England. Since his retirement from the screen in 1966, he has worked as an executive for Faberge, the cosmetics firm, as well as serving on the board of directors for the MGM-UA Film Studio. Dear PrimeTime:

I am a Pay TV viewer and enjoy watching all of the pay TV channels, but I was very disappointed when I realized that The Sports Network is not programmed in your PrimeTime Magazine. I would like to know why this network isn't programmed in your magazine. If possible, could it be included in upcoming issues of PrimeTime?

G. Jackson
Brampton, Ontario

P.S. If possible could you tell me T.S.N.'s mailing address?

Because PrimeTime Magazine is a monthly national publication, we must prepare the magazine at least six weeks before the issue date. This ensures you will receive your magazine at least one week before the beginning of the month. However, TSN does not have their schedule completed until approximately two weeks before their programming starts. This allows them to provide their viewers with the best of live sports action, but unfortunately prevents them from being included in PrimeTime. As you can see, in May and June, we were able to provide PrimeTime readers with the TSN schedule for Blue Jays and Expo baseball. Hopefully, as TSN increases their inventory, they will be able to ensure the information you seek is available to PrimeTime. Their mailing address is:

The Sports Network
1155 Leslie Street
Toronto, Ontario
M3C 2J6

Dear PrimeTime:

I am writing to let you know that I really enjoy the Arts & Entertainment Network. It's just about the best thing on cable right now. I love those British shows, like Nanny, Tenko, The Citadel, All Creatures Great And Small, etcetera. I also like the movies and the musical specials. But my particular favorite is Victorian Days. I liked the dramatization of Great Expectations, and particularly the recent Jane Eyre. I was wondering if you could give me an address to write to where I could find out more about these productions and about upcoming ones.

THE TARZAN LEGEND: 1918 to 1985

In 1912, Edgar Rice Burroughs wrote the first of his novels on Tarzan, Lord of the Apes and spawned the equivalent of an entire film industry intent on reproducing this epic for the screen. Since 1918, when a beefy Elmo Lincoln made history as the original apeman, there have been 41 versions of the legend made for movies, plus several television series. Something in the jungle character caught and held the imaginations of filmmakers and audiences for eight decades, a unique concept in this fickle age. Yet is it so difficult to understand? Who does not yearn to throw aside the restraints of civilized society to confront the challenges of untamed wilderness?

Since 1918 . . . there have been 41 versions of the legend made for movies.

Tarzan is a basic archetype of the human consciousness, caught between his primitive nature and the obligations of his heritage. This duality intrigues and tempts modern man; is life in the jungle simpler, more innocent, in some manner more moral? The choices of the jungle are straight forward; you kill to eat, to defend yourself, to protect the weaker. Though Tarzan conquers through his superior intellect and ability to make weapons, it is still rule by the fittest. It is exhilarating to watch man assume a dominant position over beast, yet at the same time it seems almost patronizing, even hypocritical. The intellectual ability of man is what has created the organization of civilization. Yet when viewed through naive eyes, that same society seems corrupt and indolent. Tarzan's renunciation of his aristocratic birthright is spectacularly courageous, an impulse surely felt to some degree by every person facing the mundaneness of their existence.

In a departure from the original novel in which Tarzan leaves Jane behind, film sequels reunited them in the jungle. Their idyllic, Garden of Eden romance provided a softening influence on the harsh jungle environment. Since Jane was usually a timid, scantily-clad ingenue, she allowed Tarzan an opportunity to extend his role of protector and establish his territoriality. It also provided the occasion to use a line which has fallen into common vernacular, "Me Tarzan, You Jane".

Though Olympic swimming star Johnny Weismuller is by far the best known and remains in many people's minds, the definitive Tarzan, there have been 17 different actors as the lord of the apes. Elmo Lincoln was the first in the silent version, Tarzan of the Apes, repeating the role in two sequels (The Romance of Tarzan and The Return of Tarzan) and a serial. Next came Weismuller in Tarzan the Ape Man (1932), adding a piercing yodel to Tarzan's characterization. His powerful physique made him an ideal king of the jungle for a dozen films, playing opposite such Janes as Brenda Joyce, Frances Gifford, Nancy Kelly and of course, Maureen O'Sullivan. Other Olympic medal winners who swung through the jungle included Buster Crabbe (Tarzan the Fearless — 1933), Herman Brix (Tarzan and the Green Goddess — 1938), and Glenn Morris (Tarzan's Revenge — 1938). Lex Barker was cast as Tarzan in Tarzan's Magic Fountain, reprising the role four more times between 1949 and 1953. Subsequently actors Gordon Scott (Tarzan's Hidden Jungle — 1955, Tarzan and the Lost Safari — 1957, Tarzan's Fight for Life — 1958, Tarzan and the Trappers — 1958, Tarzan's Greatest Adventure — 1959, Tarzan the Magnificent — 1960), Denny Miller (a 1959 remake of Weismuller's 1932 film, using colored footage of the original), Jock Mahoney (Tarzan Goes to India — 1962, Tarzan's Three Challenges — 1963), and Mike Henry (Tarzan and the Valley of Gold — 1966, Tarzan and the Great River — 1967, Tarzan and the Jungle Boy — 1968) all answered the call of the wild. Ron Ely first played Tarzan on a Mexican television serial then went into feature films with Tarzan's Jungle Rebellion (1970) and Tarzan's Deadly Silence (1970). Miles O'Keeffe's Tarzan, in the laughably bad 1981 version, was forced to compete with Bo Derek's semi-nude body for attention, and as might be expected, lost. In 1984, Christopher Lambert was chosen for his lithe, graceful frame, in contrast to the many body-builders and Olympic hereos who had gone before.

It is interesting to note how few of these actors became known for anything but their portrayal of Tarzan. The role of Tarzan seems to have been almost a jinx for most, or perhaps it was because the actors were chosen for their body types rather than any innate ability to act. Few of them offered anything but a very simplistic interpretation of the character but that proved sufficiently satisfying to their viewers. Tarzan became popular in the Depression era, when audiences yearned for relief from the confusion of their lifes and found escape in the jungle landscape. His stern moral code and unhesitating sense of right and wrong made him a hero when heroes seemed scarce and since there are never enough good guys, he remains as important now as then.

STATE OF THE ART COOKING

Ah! Those lovely, warm, long summer evenings. Nice time to shift to outdoor dining. Get your barbecue ready, but don't forget your microwave oven. How could you! Use both, as they complement each other. Let's explore the possibilities.

How often have you had chicken char on the outside when grilling, because of a rich basting sauce, while the centre was pink? The same thing can happen with spare ribs, pork chops and roasts. Even potatoes and corn can be overdone in spots, on the barbecue.

The solution is perfectly barbecued food and a non-frazzled cook is based on the microwave oven. Start the food in the microwave oven to partially cook it. Complete the process over the coals.

The recipes give you timing for specific meats, which you can adapt to others. Should your microwave oven have a cook-by-weight system, set the program as usual. Divide the time shown on the clock display in half and stop micro-cooking then. Complete on the barbecue. Thin items, like chops, steaks and chicken pieces, will require an additional 5-10 minutes on the grill, while roasts will need about 25 minutes to complete. Prepare the barbecue in advance, so that the coals have ample time to burn down to a red glow. By that point, the other parts of your meal should be prepared as well.

There are some tips for getting the best results.

Take chicken halves — so uneven because of bone shape and flesh thickness. It is a good idea to flatten the halves, before cooking, using a cutting board or cleaver. Flavours are enhanced in any meat, poultry or even fish, by marinating for a few hours or overnight. A plastic bag makes an ideal container for marinating, as it holds the liquid close to the meat. This means less marinade mixture is required. If you use boil-in-bags you can micro-cook the meat in it. Save the marinade for basting during grilling. Fish marinades should be applied just before barbecuing. In fact, only large, whole fish should be microwaved, then finished on the barbecue. Brush barbecue sauce on meat during grilling, so flavours are enhanced, however, a light coating during the micro-cooking step provides a flavour advantage.

No al fresco meal is complete without vegetables. One of the most delicious is corn-on-the-cob. Perfect when cooked in the microwave oven! There are several methods, so pick the one that suits you. Micro-cook 1-1/2 minutes per ear. A favourite way is to peel back the husks, remove the silk and replace the husks. They act as a covering that keeps in juices and promotes that sweet flavour. You can even slip some butter on the kernels before securing the husks. Another method is to husk the corn completely and wrap each cob in waxed paper, twisting the ends shut. A handy system when everyone likes their corn at a different time. A third system also uses husked corn. Put as many cobs as will fit into a square or rectangular dish, with about 50 mL (1/4 cup) of water. Cover with plastic wrap before micro-cooking. Remember the cobs attract microwaves, becoming very hot. This keeps the corn warm for about 15 minutes.

Don't forget potatoes. Partially micro-cook them — about 2 minutes each at HIGH power, then crisp the skins over the coals.

Now relax! Pull the T.V. up to the patio door and enjoy a movie!

BACHELOR PARTY

One of the most time-honoured rituals of the pre-nuptial period is the bachelor party, an opportunity for one last rowdy fling surrounded by close companions. This is the premise for this outrageous comedy starring Tom Hanks (Splash) as the lovable, slobbish busdriver who is ready to abdicate his freedom for the beautiful Tawny Kitaen. Despite the objections of her parents and the pique of her former boyfriend, the couple's romance proceeds until Tawny discovers their friends' plans to test Hanks' convictions. Dressing up as a prostitute, Tawny prepares to spy on her would-be hubby during the party as his friends assemble the wildest assortment of people ever seen at one place. This will be the party which wistful husbands speak of in years to come.

The main reason to see the pic is for Hanks' performance. Recalling a younger Bill Murray, he's all over the place, practically spilling off the screen with an over-abundance of energy — Variety

The NATURAL

The inimitable clean-cut profile of superstar Robert Redford seems particularly well-suited to the venerated institution of baseball. In this film Redford is back in his first screen role in four years and his first credit of any kind since directing the Oscar-winning Ordinary People. He plays Roy Hobbs, an aging rookie who takes the baseball world by storm in one spectacular season while dealing with the lingering effects of his past. As a boy, Roy's father had recognized his innate athletic ability and had trained him to be the perfect all-round baseball player. Though his father died when Roy was 15, the dream stayed alive in the boy's heart. At 20, he was hand-picked by a Chicago Cubs scout and, promising to be back, Roy left his fiancee Iris (Glenn Close) to take his shot at the major leagues. On the way to Chicago, Roy was snared by a mysterious temptress (Barbara Hershey) and his hopes for the future shattered. Fifteen years later, Roy turns up again in New York, to play for the losing N.Y. Knights. Despite the objections of the manager, the wiles of a fellow ballplayer's girlfriend and the bribes of the team owner, Roy leads the team towards the pennant. When Iris appears again, nothing can stop this modern-day hero from reaching for glory.

The Natural is an impeccably made fable about success and failure in America. Looking fit and trim and fulfilling the fantasies of any man who ever wanted to play in the majors, Redford is perfectly cast as Hobbs. — Variety.

— THE LEGEND OF —

TARZAN

LORD OF THE APES

The legend begins with a shipwreck off the coast of mysterious, beckoning Africa. Lord Clayton and his young wife survive, to build rudimentary shelter in the jungle and wait for rescue. Their baby is born, Lady Alice dying in childbirth. The child is orphaned, to be raised by apes, rescued by a Belgian explorer and returned to his ancestral home and place in titled Edwardian English society. The story which has gripped the imagination of readers for almost a century has been brought to the screen again in this majestic film. The elaborate production returns to the original concept of Edgar Rice Burrough's novel with incredible attention to detail. Filmed partially in Cameroon, West Africa, actors were brought together with chimpanzees to live and study their mannerisms. Newcomer Christopher Lambert was chosen for the character of Tarzan to bring freshness to that oft-portrayed role, as well as his innate athleticism. The late Sir Ralph Richardson received an Academy nomination for his performance as Tarzan's grandfather, the 6th Earl of Greystoke.

RHINESTONE

The considerable talents of Dolly Parton and Sylvester Stallone provide a fun, fascinating showcase of a movie. Dolly Parton is country singer Jake Ferris, who sings in a urban cowboy bar, owned by Freddie Ugo (Ron Leibman). She wants to get out of her exclusive contract with Freddie and issues him a challenge. If she can take any clown off the street and train him to sing country western in two weeks, her contract will be torn up. If she fails, the contract will be extended for five years. Enter the clown who is picked as the perfect candidate — New York cabby Nick Martinelli (Stallone). He can't sing, hates country western music and refuses to take Jake seriously. But she is determined to put some country in the boy and you know if anyone is capable of that — it must be Dolly Parton. Parton composed 18 original songs for this movie and sings two of them as a duet with Stallone.

A charming movie, spunky and full of surprising fun — People

Under the Volcano

Master director John Huston (The Maltese Falcon) created a brilliant adaptation of Malcolm Lowry's acclaimed novel about a British consul (Albert Finney in an Oscar-nominated performance) drinking himself to death in Mexico in the 1930's. Taking place over a 24-hour period, the film follows the consul on his self-destructive path, while around him the Mexicans celebrate the festival for The Day of The Dead. Guilt-ridden over his past and abandoned by his wife, the diplomat spends a drunken night in bars, returning home to discover his wife Yvonne (Jacqueline Bisset) has unexpectedly returned. The couple's acrimonious reunion is disturbed by the consul's half-brother, whose affair with Yvonne led to the break-up. Together, the three travel to a country bullfight, held in the shadow of the volcano.

BEAT STREET

The sound, look and feeling of hip-hop culture comes exuberantly alive in this tribute to the breaking, rapping and graffiti movement born in New York City. Co-produced by Harry Belafonte and shot in the South Bronx, the film follows three friends who are trying in their individual ways to turn their world into a more beautiful place. Alberta-born Rae Dawn Chong appears as the music composer-conducter who tries to assist. The plot weaves its way around an explosion of music and dancing with a particularly spectacular exhibit of breaking displayed during a pseudo-rumble between two rival gangs. The athletic-oriented choreography is performed by leading breaker crews with such exotic names as the Rock Steady Breakers, Magnificent Force, N.Y.C. Breakers, Grand Master Melle Mel and The Furious Five, Afrika Bambaataa and The Soul Sonic Force, and Us Girls.

For a young woman turning sixteen, the definition of anguish would be to have that very important birthday forgotten. And that's exactly what happens to Molly Ringwald (Spacehunter) in this amiable comedy on the angst of adolescence. Caught up in wedding preparations for an older sister, the apocryphal birthday is overlooked by the entire family (including eccentric grandparents, loving parents and a brat of a kid brother, played by Justin Henry of Kramer vs Kramer). If that isn't enough for one girl to deal with, she is also pursued by a freshman wimp called Ted the Geek (Anthony Michael Hall) while she suffers from a crush on the high school heartthrob. Writer/director John Hughes, who scripted Mr. Mom, ties together all the strings of this package, creating a winning present for anyone who has turned, or plans on turning, sixteen.

LOUISIANA

This dramatic mini-series spans three generations, moving from the battlegrounds of the American Civil War to the ballrooms of New Orleans and Paris. Margot Kidder (Trenchcoat) is Virginia Tregan, the indomitable woman determined to take back her plantation and restore the peaceful world she grew up in. Torn between the marquis who can help her regain her place in society and his mysterious overseer, Virginia faces the challenge of her life with only her determination and strong will to sustain her. Adapted from Maurice Denuziere's best-selling trilogy, this sweeping film will be presented in three episodes. Violence, mature situations.

Something Wicked This Way Comes

The bewitching possibility of having your secret dreams come true — who could resist the offer? For the citizens of Green Town, the temptation is dangled in front of them by the mysterious Mr. Dark, proprietor of Dark's Pandemonium Carnival, the travelling show which has pitched its tents on the outskirts of their town. It's up to two small boys and the town librarian (Jason Robards) to extricate their town from the destructive powers of Mr. Dark. The film is adapted from Ray Bradbury's popular fantasy novel of the same name. Violence.

BAD MANNERS

Funny and fast-paced comedy about orphans in a delinquent home who are being sold off to the highest bidder. When the Fitzpatricks (Martin Mull and Karen Black) decide to open their hearts (and their pocket books) and take in a poor homeless waif, they end up with Mouse (Michael Hentz), a pint-sized street kid who doesn't want to be adopted. On his best anti-social behavior, Mouse wreaks havoc in the lives of the Fitzpatricks until, finally escaping, he heads back to find his friends. In a classic miscalculation, his friends have broken out of the orphanage to find him, resulting in a madcap chase. Language, nudity.

TOP SECRET!

From the writing/directing team which brought you Airplane! comes another extravagantly silly poke at the sacred institutions of movies. This time, the result is a combination of classic spy films and the happy-go-lucky Elvis Presley musicals. Val Kilmer is the world famous rock star Nick Rivers, who is touring East Germany. While there, he is caught up in an insiduous plot to reunite Germany under the rule of East Germany. The evil General Streck has blackmailed Dr. Flammond into creating a new secret weapon, threatening to kill his daughter Hillary if he does not cooperate. Meanwhile Hillary (Lucy Gutteridge), meets up with Nick and recruits him in her search for her father. Romance, intrigue and unending laughs follow.

THE LOST HITCHCOCKS

First Choice ★ Superchannel is pleased to continue this retrospective of the films of the "Master of Suspense", Alfred Hitchcock. These films represent some of his best work; withheld from the viewing public for over 20 years, they are as fresh and exciting as ever. Sundays throughout June will provide you with a very special viewing experience — the lost films of Hitchcock.

ROPE

"Murder is an art", James Stewart's character says, "and as such should remain the privilege of superior beings." It is certain that Hitchcock believed cinematic murder was indeed an art and in this film, he creates his piece de resistance. Stewart plays a professor who is taken literally by two of his students when they decide to kill a friend for the experience. To celebrate what they consider to be the perfect crime, they then host a ghoulish supper to the victim's relatives and friends, serving the meal from atop the chest in which the body is hidden. Hitchcock's first venture as independent producer/director was shot in continuous ten minute takes, to enhance the feeling of entrapment he wished to invoke in the audience.

VERTIGO

Generally regarded as one of Hitchcock's best films, Vertigo revolves around a retired police detective (James Stewart) hired by an old school friend to follow his suicidal wife. Stewart's neurotic fear of heights triggers a gripping sequence of events. As Stewart watches the woman (Kim Novak), he begins to fall in love with her. Her strange behavior leads him to a high belltower of an old mission where his acrophobia prevents him from climbing high enough to stop her from death. Shattered by her suicide, Stewart, in a mentally unbalanced state, begins again to follow another woman, insisting there exists an unnatural resemblance between her and the dead woman.

THE TROUBLE WITH HARRY

This blithe comedy was a delightful departure from suspense for Hitchcock. That's not to say it doesn't deal with death — the aforementioned Harry is a corpse and the trouble is that no-one knows what to do with him. A retired sea captain stumbles upon the body while out rabbit hunting. Believing one of his stray bullets was the culprit, he decides to bury Harry. However, middle-aged spinster Miss Graveley (Mildred Natwick) also claims responsibility, as does Harry's widow (Shirley MacLaine in her debut film role). During the course of events, poor Harry's body is dug up and reburied three or four times and is responsible for two romances and much concern.

A whimsically fey, slightly wacky comedy, despite the ghoulish subject — Variety.

(PG, 1955, 99m)

JUNE 2, 6, 18, 29

Capt. Wiles ..... Edmund Gwynn
Sam Marlow ..... John Forsythe

FRIDAY THE 13TH -The Final Chapter

Followers of this horror series will enjoy their fourth outing with Jason, the hockey-masked fellow with a penchant for in-depth biological studies. As friends gather at the lake, the crazed Jason takes his toll, until he is brutally, and if the title of the movie is any indication, finally struck down himself, by a little boy with (you guessed it) a fetish for masks. Extreme violence, nudity, mature content. (R, 1984, 91m)

JUNE 28

Jimmy ..... Crispin Glover
Trish ..... Kimberly Beck
Sara ..... Barbara Howard
Jason ..... Ted White

TOUCHED

Robert Hays (Airplane!) stars as Daniel, an anxiety-ridden inmate of a mental institution. Daniel rebels against the pressure from the doctors to rehabilitate and conform and decides to escape. Only Kathleen Beller, a fellow inmate, believes in his ability to make it on his own and when he finds a job and security outside the institution, Daniel returns for her. Together they attempt to build a 'normal' life. Co-starring Ned Beatty. Language.

(A, 1984, 93m)

JUNE 13, 24

Directed by John Flynn; Produced by Barclay Lottimer and Dirk Petersmann; Written by Lyle Kessler.

erendira

A haunting, surrealistic parable written by Nobel prize-winning Colombian novelist Gabriel Marquez. An evil sorceress-like grandmother forces her young granddaughter to work as a prostitute to pay for the house she accidentally burnt down. Irene Papas is superb as the cruel matriarch without one scrap of maternal affection. Intent only upon wringing riches from her scheme, the grandmother drags Erendira across the desert without respite. But Erendira's beauty and innocent nature has caused Ulysses to love her and he becomes determined to rescue the young woman from her service. This film will be shown in its original Spanish version with sub-titles. Nudity, mature content. (R, 1984, 103m)

GOLD LUST

A fascinating documentary on the spell gold weaves around its seekers. Filmed during the current Brazilian gold rush, the focus is on the open-pit mine of Serra Pelada, an ore-rich mud puddle where thousands of Brazilians flock to find their fortunes. Living under the most severe conditions, the dream of instant riches sustain these adventurers. Narrated by Orson Welles. Brief nudity.

(A, 1984, 60m)

JUNE 17, 20, 27

Produced and Directed by Robert Maclean; Written by Robert Maclean and Neil Hollander.

UPS AND DOWNS

This preppie comedy from Canadian director Paul Almond is a fascinating experiment in filmmaking. When Almond decided to make a movie based on his own vivid memories of life at a boarding school, he spent hours in group sessions with students to chronicle actual events in their lives. He then filmed the story at a school in British Columbia, with many of the students and three teachers taking roles. The result is a joyful and realistic view of student life today.

THE INITIATION

A sweet young sorority sister is plagued by a recurring nightmare which seems to be coming true when an inmate of the local asylum escapes and begins to terrorize her college. Vera Miles stars as Frances Fairchild, mother of the pretty Kelly and a key player in the nightmares. Kelly's dreams are being analysed by her teaching assistant at college and as he begins to delve into her past, terrifying events start to take place. The horror culminates on Prank Night, as the sorority pledges undergo the hazing that accompanies their initiation. Violence, nudity.

Let's Play Ball

The Fine Art of Watching Baseball on Television

Baseball. It's part of the rites of spring and the passions of summer. A lust for the crack of the bat has been bred into our bones, passed down through generations who have been summoned to the baseball fields on lingering summer evenings. Though we may put aside the game as we grow less limber, the urge to participate, however vicariously, still exists. The challenge is to invoke that special timeless ambience which hovers over a baseball park, as we enjoy the game courtesy of our TV set. It's not difficult; with a little coordination and forethought you can create a baseball diamond in your living room. These suggestions should be viewed as a starting point only. Do not hesitate to improvise to suit your personal vision.

GLOSSARY

A quick reference to commonly used baseball phrases

My mother hits better than that
Sucker up to bat
The ump's blind
The ump's deaf
The ump's mentally incompetent
He couldn't hit the broadside of a barn
Slide for it
His mask's on backwards

DRESS

Dressing properly is the first step to enjoyable viewing. Baseball games can run between 2 1/2 and 3 1/2 hours so make casual comfort your byword. Designer jeans, sports jackets and silk shirts are tres outre. Start with sweat pants and build from there. Add a loud, tacky Hawaiian shirt or faded, stretched T-shirt. Old gym socks and older running shoes (preferably not laced up) provide a nice touch. With a little planning, you can take socks fresh from a raquetball game in December, store them in a zip-lock bag in the back of your closet and have them primed for your baseball season in June. The pungent aroma stirs up memories of your locker days and starts the adrenaline pumping. The key is to look like you're ready to step down from the stands and onto the field. You know that with the right breaks and good coaching, you could have turned that pitching arm into an awesome machine. Don't be afraid to claim your rightful place in baseball brotherhood, at least in your dress. Keep your glove handy, the lucky one that pulled those flies down from the sky to gently nestle in its well-worn pocket. And need we mention the cap? Worn backwards or forwards (standards have relaxed somewhat) the faithful baseball cap is an instrument of communication, to be ripped off, wrung, stomped on or waved in exaltation.

ATMOSPHERE

Now that you are suitably attired, you can start to create the proper atmosphere. Plant your favorite armchair squarely in front of the television set. Baseball watching is a lonely sport and you should prepare yourself psychologically by isolating your TV and your chair from the rest of the household. The only really permissible form of togetherness in baseball is between a parent and child. Handing down baseball lore from generation to generation is a time-honoured tradition, nay, an obligation, which provides the sweetest pleasures for both teacher and disciple. During at-home viewing, a student would generally be found eagerly sitting at his mentor's feet, or perhaps perched on the arm of a chair, ready to perform the fetching which is an integral part of the apprenticeship. Sprinkle a little sand in front of your armchair, stick gum under the seat, tack the appropriate pennants up on the walls and you have the essentials. It has been rumoured that one devoted fan is developing an aerosol spray which duplicates the smell of broiled weiners, spilt beer, and 15,000 sweaty bodies, something you might want to watch for in your local supermarket.

FOOD

While innovation is encouraged in other areas of your viewing, certain foods are sacrosanct to baseball and deviation from these is severely discouraged (in some provinces, improper eating procedures during baseball games is punishable by seizure of your television set). The basics are straightforward. A beverage (usually warm, flat beer though lemonade is acceptable) in a leaking paper cup, three or four overcooked hot dogs, mustard in little plastic packages, pretzels, popcorn and of course, peanuts. The peanuts must be in shells, providing ammunition for moments of disgust. Though it isn't imperative, it is a nice touch to hire a family member or neighboring child to act as a vendor. A little practice and they'll pick up the cadence quickly. POPcorn, PEAnuts, PRETzels, with the accent on the first syllable.

The casual observer might scoff, suggesting you are overreacting. Ignore these detractors! In every field of endeavor, the amount of pleasure you receive from an effort is equal to the amount of energy you expend. Anyone can lounge on the couch in front of the TV; it takes a dedicated and loyal fan to make an event of their viewing. Is it less ridiculous to battle traffic and fight for a parking spot in order to sit in bleachers 2.3 miles from the action surrounded by boorish philistines who insist upon rooting for the wrong side? Of course not! Armed with these simple guidelines, you're now ready to enjoy the game on your own terms.

THE NASHVILLE NETWORK: BACK TO BASICS

In an age of increasing complexities and economic struggles, more than ever we need a place to turn for simplicity, good times and entertainment. That place is The Nashville Network (TNN), where performers and viewers alike get back to basics — where riches come from family and friends, from the land, and from their music.

The Nashville Network is solidly rooted in the popularity of country music, an art form that ranges from bluegrass, gospel and Cajun to Western swing and progressive rock.

TNN has a natural appeal in Canada where country music has long been appreciated. Nearly half of all Canadian radio stations program some country music and sales figures for country records have been relatively strong over the years. No wonder, then, that TNN has become the fastest-growing pay cable service in Canada since it became available here in September 1984.

To ensure TNN's value to the Canadian audience, the network recently formed C-PAC, the Canadian Programming Advisory Committee. C-PAC provides TNN with information about Canadian country music artists and Canadian events of interest to TNN viewers. Serving on the committee are prominent members of Canada's entertainment and tourist industries.

THE OPRY — A CANADIAN FAVORITE

The Grand Ole Opry is often called the "mother church" of country music, and each year more than 100,000 Canadians visit the Opry and Opryland Amusement Park in Nashville, Tenn., home of The Nashville Network.

On The Grand Ole Opry Live, TNN viewers can enjoy such stars as Loretta Lynn, Roy Acuff, Minnie Pearl, Bill Monroe and Larry Gatlin, to name just a few, at 8:00 pm (Eastern Time) every Saturday night from the Opry stage. Originating 60 years ago, the Grand Old Opry is the world's oldest continuous radio show, and except for a few highly rated specials on PBS, has never before been televised.

With shows like The Grand Old Opry Live, TNN fulfills cable's promise by offering programming not regularly available on broadcast television.

Here is a sampling of some of the other programs TNN brings to your home 18-hours-a-day that you won't find anywhere else on your dial:

Music

NEW COUNTRY: Country's hottest performers debut their latest album releases and also sing a few old favorites every weeknight. Waylon Jennings, Lee Greenwood, David Frizzell, Shelley West and George Jones are among those regularly appearing on this 30-minute concert series.

COUNTRYCLIPS: Hosted by the irrepressible puppet deejay, Shotgun Red, this weekend music video series brings TNN viewers the best new music videos from established country giants (Dolly Parton, Johnny Cash and Sylvia, to name just a few) and talented newcomers alike.

VIDEOCOUNTRY: Hosted by Shelley Mangrum, reigning Miss Tennessee, and a finalist in the 1984 Miss America Pageant, brings TNN viewers their favorite music videos every weeknight along with concert schedules and TNN program information.

FIRE ON THE MOUNTAIN: Host David Holt takes viewers in a time machine back to the age of acoustic music in his program that showcases the best of bluegrass and old-time mountain music. Taped in the heart of the Smoky Mountains in Maggie Valley, North Carolina, David often treks into the hills to strum with old timers on their front porches and share story-telling from several generations past, seen every Saturday.

Talk Shows

NASHVILLE NOW: Ralph Emery, host of television's only live nightly primetime entertainment series welcomes top country stars every weeknight for 90 minutes of interviews and performances. Willie Nelson, Barbara Mandrell, and supergroup Alabama are just a few of the artists that have been Ralph's guests.

BOBBY BARE AND FRIENDS: Named "the best (country music) television show" by People magazine, every Saturday singer/songwriter Bobby Bare welcomes some of the best and most prolific songwriters in country music. Waylon Jennings, Mel Tillis, Glen Campbell and Rosanne Cash are just some of the guests featured in this intimate, candid interview/performance program taped in a Nashville recording studio.

News & Features

COUNTRY NOTES: TNN's country music news magazine, hosted by Janet Tyson and Greg Crutcher, each Saturday provides weekly reports on the country music industry, including new record releases, artists' tours, films in production, Grand Ole Opry lineups, fan club information as well as a historical "Where Are They Now?" feature.

Of course this is not a complete listing of TNN's programs. We offer sports shows, talent contests and game shows — and an imported variety program from Canada, The Tommy Hunter Show.

Our policy at TNN is to be responsive to our viewers. We pay close attention to your letters and calls, and since it's more country music that you want, it's more country music we'll keep offering. You can think of TNN as "your country home," somewhere to go for serious fun.

by C. Paul Corbin

C. Paul Corbin is Program Director, TNN, a member of the Board of Directors of the Country Music Association and Chairman of the Canadian Programming Advisory Committee (C-PAC).

Double the Speed of Sound

Because it's no fun to wait while you duplicate, this new Sanyo Model MW750, with high speed dubbing, reproduces cassettes at twice the usual speed. And because it's no fun to interrupt your music to flip over cassettes, it also gives you Continuous Play. This mini sound studio measures a mere 43.7 cm x 12 cm x 10 cm and gives you great stereo sound through its dynamic four-speaker system. In glossy Black, Cardinal Red or Pewter Gray, this Sanyo double-deck Slimline is so much fun, in so little space, with such style!
